

Goodbyes before a second tour

DENNIS JOHNSON/Stars and Stripes

Above: Staff Sgt. Israel Cuevas of the 130th Engineer Brigade's Headquarters and Headquarters Company plays with daughter Emily, 2, at Pioneer Kaserne in Hanau, Germany, before saying goodbye and heading for Iraq for a second one-year tour. Below: U.S. Army 1st Class Vincent Leno kisses his wife, Imke, goodbye as daughter Sydney, 8, watches and 12-year-old son Jeremy takes a photo. Approximately 100 soldiers from the Headquarters and Headquarters Company and 80 from the 320th Engineer Company will be posted near Baghdad.

Homecoming surprise

RAYMOND T. CONWAY/Stars and Stripes

Left: Dr. Kantathi Suphamongkhon, Thailand's minister of foreign affairs, looks over a Gen. H.H. Arnold High School yearbook Saturday with Judy Flacke, who was a history teacher when he was a student there. Suphamongkhon went to the school for two years while his father was Thailand's ambassador to Germany, graduating in 1970. Saturday was the school's homecoming, but a public affairs spokeswoman said the visit was not connected to the event. Right: Suphamongkhon's picture from the yearbook he checked out.

Preparing for departure

The 22nd Signal Brigade's Command Sgt. Maj. Thomas Clark, left, and its commander, Col. Fred Cross, furl the unit's colors at a casing ceremony Friday at Kelley Barracks in Darmstadt, Germany. The ceremony symbolizes the brigade's upcoming deployment to Iraq.
